Why Do We Keep Asking You the Same Questions?

If you've ever wondered why we keep asking for the same information, like your medications, allergies, or insurance details, you're not alone. We hear that a lot! While it feels repetitive, there are good reasons for asking, such as:

1. Your Health Can Change

Even if you think nothing's different, we need to confirm details at every visit to ensure your care is accurate and up-to-date.

2. It's the Law

We are required by law (like HIPAA and Medicare rules) to verify certain information regularly.

3. Different Staff, Different Purposes

Receptionists, nurses, and doctors may each ask similar questions, but for different reasons, from billing to diagnosis.

4. Technology Isn't Perfect

Not all systems share information automatically, especially between different clinics or specialists.

5. It's About Your Safety

Double-checking things like medications and allergies helps prevent serious medical errors.

Thank you for your patience with this critical process!
